 - Pastoral Support and Welfare Specialists Team (pupil focus).
- Staff are encouraged to seek out these staff if concerned about their own or others' wellbeing. However, should it be preferred, staff should speak to whomever they feel able to in order to manage their own wellbeing, with consideration for those they identify. If a member of staff does not feel they have a supportive colleague in school then they should seek to share concerns with their line manager so that appropriate support can be offered.

- All staff are expected to:
 - Promote positive mental health and wellbeing across the school.
 - Understand risk factors.
 - Model hope.
 - Report concerns about a pupil's mental health or wellbeing to the link pastoral support and welfare specialist and or the DSL.
 - If there is a fear that a pupil is in danger of immediate harm then the usual child protection procedures should be followed.
 - If a pupil represents a medical emergency then the usual procedures for this should be followed, including alerting the first aid staff and contacting emergency services if necessary.
 - Support and collaborate with parents/carers.
 - Consider the individual workload pressures and stresses of all staff members.
 - Be honest about their own wellbeing.
 - Participate in CPD related to wellbeing.
 - Record concerns on Edgen database.

 - Ensure that resources and support services are in place.

- Consider the format and quantity of information requested.

➤ Warning signs

- Warning signs that indicate someone is experiencing mental health or wellbeing issues should be taken seriously and communicated to relevant staff. Possible signs for pupils/staff may include:
 - Physical signs of harm that are repeated or appear non-accidental.
 - Changes in eating/sleeping habits.
 - Sudden weight loss/gain.
 - Lack of personal care.
 - Difficulty sleeping or constant tiredness.
 - Increased isolation from friends/colleagues, becoming socially withdrawn.
 - Changes in activity/mood.
 - Lowering of productivity.
 - Talking or joking about self-harm/suicide.
 - Abusing drugs or alcohol/increased consumption of caffeine, cigarettes or sedatives.
 - Expressing feelings of failure, uselessness or loss of hope.
 - Changes in clothing.
 - Secretive behaviour.
 - Increased absence.
 - Repeated physical pain/nausea with no evident cause.
 - Irritability, aggression or tearfulness.
 - Increased conflict with others.
 - Indecision/inability to concentrate.
 - Erratic behaviour.
 - Loss of confidence.
 - Difficulty remembering things.
 - Loss of humour.
 - Increased errors, missing deadline or forgetting tasks.
- Pupils:
 - Many pupils within the cohort are already supported by CAMHS or have a pre-existing mental illness. As such we are often already aware of what may affect their wellbeing or if they engage in harmful behaviours or have suicidal ideation. This does not mean that things will not change and we should remain vigilant to any identified concerns or changes in behaviour or disclosures.
- Staff:
 - Staff model hope throughout the school and there is a strong ethos of unconditional positive regard and support. As such, particular attention should be paid if a member of staff begins to behave in a way, which is out of character or out of sync with the school values. Any low-level concerns/observations should be reported to line manager/DSL/Head Teacher in line with the school policies.

➤ Challenges

- We recognise the unique position of our setting in relation to mental health and wellbeing and the potential impact this could have on staff. Factors impacting workforce wellbeing may include:
- Nature of cohort.
 - Complex dynamics.
 - Exposure to trauma narratives.
 - Health demands.
 - Balance of meeting pastoral and academic needs.
 - Attendance/missing learning.
 - Processes and depth of information required for each pupil.
 - Pupil passport.
 - Pastoral plan.
 - Risk assessment.
 - Healthcare plan.
 - ILP.
- Multiple staff having multiple job 'hats' or unique standalone roles.
- Relatively small team and potential negative impact on pupils if source supply staff – a desire to manage things 'in house'.
- Logistics of three bases and home working across a large county area.
 - Travel.
 - Reliance on technology.
 - Volume of email communication.
 - Moving resources around bases.
- External pressures.

➤ Managing disclosures

- In the event of a disclosure, staff should remain calm, non-judgemental and reassuring. The focus should be on establishing emotional and physical safety rather than trying to find out why or offering advice.
- Any disclosure should be reported on Edgen (pupils) or to appropriate staff (staff). Records should include date, details of individuals involved, main points from discussion/observation and any action taken.
- Any information may be shared with external agencies and may be viewed by pupil/staff members/police. As such, there should be an approach of unconditional positive regard, neutrality and objectivity.
- Confidentiality:
 - We should be honest with regard to confidentiality.
 - Pupils: If we need to pass concerns on about a pupil, we should tell them and ideally receive consent (although there are occasions when information must be shared regardless of this).

- It is essential to share disclosures with a colleague, usually the linked PSWS and DSL. This helps to safeguard staff wellbeing as we no longer hold sole responsibility for pupils. It ensures continuity of care in the event of absence and provides an extra source of support.
- Parents should be informed if there are concerns about pupil mental health but we should always give pupils opportunity to tell parents themselves or staff member sharing information for them or with them.
- If there is reason to believe that there may be underlying child protection issues and/or informing parents places a child at risk then this should not be communicated with family and Children's Services should be informed – 01522 782111 (Mon-Fri 8am – 6pm) or 01522 782333 (outside office hours).
- Staff: If staff have concerns about the presentation of a colleague but do not feel able to check in personally, they should speak to the line manager or DSL.
- Concerns about staff wellbeing/behaviour will be handled discreetly and logged in a confidential database.
- If we need to pass concerns on about the safety of staff, we will tell them and ideally receive consent.

We must work collaboratively to support and empower our young people and their parents/carers to develop the skills, agency and confidence to move forwards with hope.
 - We will:
 - Explain and outline the support and provision offered by the school during initial contact
 - Invite family to school base to begin familiarisation and hopefully alleviate some anxiety
 - Maintain regular contact to provide opportunities to discuss concerns, provide support, satisfy safeguarding responsibilities and share information
 - Hold regular reviews to assess and address what is going well, what we are worried about and what needs to happen
 - Attend multi-agency meetings as appropriate
 - Highlight sources of information and support about common mental health issues on our school website and send out relevant information

 - Inform parents about our PSHE curriculum
 - Refer to external agencies if required
 - Offer support via School Counsellor if it is believed there will be a positive impact on the pupil

Training

- At induction, all staff will receive CPD, which enables them to have a good understanding of pupil's mental health needs, know how to recognise and respond to distress and processes to report. This also includes sessions about boundaries and safeguarding.

- Training for staff who require more in-depth knowledge will be considered as part of the performance management process and additional CPD will be offered throughout the year where it becomes apparent due to developing situations with one or more pupils.
- Hope Smith is our Training and Development Officer and offers MHFA one- and two-day courses as well as bespoke training specific to the needs of our school and signposting to relevant wellbeing training and support.
- Wellbeing is a regular feature at inset days.
- Suggestions for individual, group or whole school CPD should be discussed with Steve Lingard (Assistant Head).
